I love to tell the story about how I met my best friend----Tiger. We met at the school fair. Each year, all the fourth-grade classes hold a school fair. Everyone in the fourth-grade works at the fair. Some sell ice cream, drinks and snacks(零食). Others take care of the little children who ride the rides.

I got the second job and I've never regretted(懊悔;遗憾) it, because that's where I met Tiger.

My job was to help little children get on (骑上) the back of a little horse. I kept telling the children to wait their turn and holding ice cream for them while they rode about. One thing was clear to me. I was growing older and should be more responsible (有责任感的).

Suddenly, a boy came to the horse. He took the little horse's reins (缰绳)! The horse stopped, and the girl on its back started to fall. I was trying to reach the girl when I saw Tiger go by my legs. It held the horse's reins and pulled the horse away from my legs. I caught the girl just before we both hit the ground. The girl sat on top of me. She was laughing at the ice cream on my face. The horse's reins were in Tiger's mouth!

Thanks to Tiger's fast action, I saved the little girl. We were both heroes. And Tiger, the fastest dog I've even known became my new best friend.

46.The writer's job was to
A. feed (喂养) the horse B. look after the children
C. ride the horse D. take care of the horse
47. Who took the horse's reins and made the horse stop at first?
A.A boy. B. The writer. C. The girl. D. Tiger. 48.From the passage, we know that the writer is A.funny B. selfish(自私的) C. responsible D. Boring

My father was always a good gardener. One of my earliest memories (记忆) is standing without shoes in the freshly tilled(翻耕的) soil, my hands blackened from digging (挖) in the ground. As a child, I loved following Dad around in the garden. I remember Dad loved growing all sorts of things: potatoes, watermelons almost as big as me, rows (排) of yellow corn (玉米), and our favorite red tomatoes. As I grew into a teenager, I didn't get so excited about gardening with Dad. Instead of magical land, the garden turned into a place I was tired of(讨厌). However, Dad's love for gardening became stronger and stronger. After all the kids had grown up and had started families of their own, Dad put his whole heart into it(全身心投入). Even when he was badly ill, he still took care of his garden.
But then, bit by bit, his health went down. Too tired to weed (除草), he simply let them be. He only planted tomatoes. As Dad became weaker and weaker, I had to take up his gardening work. Dad was dying. The rows and rows of colorful vegetables were gone.
For the first few years after he died, I couldn't even stand to look at anyone's garden, for fear that memories would hurt me. Three years ago, I decided to plant my own garden and started out with just a few tomatoes. That morning, while I was gardening, something caught the corner of my eye and I had to smile. It was my eight-year-old son Nathan, happily playing in the field.
49. When the writer was a child, he loved in the garden. A. following his father around the garden B. growing all kind of things
C. Doing gardening work D. Planting tomatoes
50. When all the kids started their families, the writer's father
A. stopped his gardening C. put his whole heart into gardening C. planted their favorite tomatoes C. planted their favorite tomatoes
C. put his whole heart into gardening C. planted their favorite tomatoes 51, the writer began to take up his work in the garden.
A. When his father was badly ill
B. When his father's health went down
C. When his father became weaker and weaker D. When his father talked about the gardening
52. The writer decided to three years ago.
A.plant his father's garden B. plant his own garden
C. sell his father's garden D. visit others' gardens

One morning I got up late. I quickly jumped out of the bed, washed my face, then hurried to the bus stop. As soon as I got on the bus, it started raining. Suddenly the bus stopped. Something was wrong with it. 53, so I ran to school.
I reached the classroom but I was all wet. The physics teacher had already begun his lesson.
54. All the students were a little afraid of him. I liked neither him nor his physics lessons. 55
. "I'm very sorry, Mr. Smith. I'm late," I said with a red face.

"It's you, Jim," Mr. Smith said angrily. "I've told you not to be late, but you..." he suddenly stopped and looked at my wet clothes. He turned to the class and said, "I'm very sorry, my boys and girls." With these words he quickly took off his own jacket and handed it to me. "Now take off your wet coat and put on this one or you'll catch a cold," he said kindly.

I went to my seat with Mr. Smith's jacket on. 56. I found, for the first time, physics was so interesting and how well I could understand it!

- A. It was Mr. Smith
- B. I had no time to wait for the next bus
- C. I stood for a moment and then opened the door
- D. It was a bit large for me but I felt very warm in it
- E. I went home and did my homework.

八、阅读短文,根据短文内容回答问题。(共10分,每小题2分)

UNICEF is the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. It raises money and helps millions of young people around the world. There are four main UNICEF projects at the moment:

Under Fives. Every year, ten million young children die. We can stop this. We can give children a better start in life — healthy food, a good home and a good school.

Child Workers. Many children do not go to school — they work in factories. They often work twelve or fourteen hours a day. And about 300,000 children in the world are soldiers — some are only eight years old! This is wrong and we want to stop it.

Girls' Education. More boys than girls in the world go to school. Some girls do not learn to read or write and later in life they don't get good jobs. Education is good for both boys and girls. We want more girls in schools.

Medicine. Every year more than two million children die from diseases because they do not have enough medicine. Medicine is not expensive. We give medicine to 40% of the world's children, mainly in Africa an Asia.

Buy UNICEF products — cards, T-shirts, teddy bears. Is there a UNICEF group in your area? Join your local group! Raise some money with your friend and give it to UNICEF. 57. Is UNICEF the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund?

- 58. What does UNICEF do?
- 59. How many children in the world are soldiers?
- 60. Why do many children die from diseases?
- 61. What products can you buy from UNICEF?
