"USA? Britain? Which country is better to study in? " We often hear such discussions. As China opens its door, many Chinese students dream to study abroad. They want to learn about the outside world.

It's true that studying abroad can help students to develop themselves in the future. Their foreign language skills will be improved and it may be easier to find jobs.

But there are problems that should be considered. Language is the first. Students must spend a lot of time learning another language. Students must also learn to deal with all kinds of things that their parents do for them before, like taking care of themselves. Finally, studying abroad adds a heavy burden (负担) to the family. For most Chinese parents, the expense (花费) of studying abroad is very high.

We know that there are many people who have achieved success through their hard work. Liu Xiang is a good example. Once an American teacher invited him there, but he refused. He kept training hard with his Chinese teacher. He surprised the world when he won a gold medal at the Athens Olympic Games. So when you wonder which country is better to study in, think it carefully.

1. It is a dream for many Chinese students to study abroad.
2. Studying abroad can't help students to develop themselves in the future.
3. Parents have to spend much money on children's studying abroad.
4. The topic of passage is about the disadvantages of studying abroad.
5. The purpose of writing the passage is to tell us to keep a clear head when considering whether to study abroad.

Many countries all over the world have National Parks. There are about 7000 National Parks around the world. Most of them protect natural settings as well as the plants and animals that live there, but a few are in towns and cities.

Are there National Parks in England?

There are nine National Parks in England. The first three were the Peak District, the Lake District and Dartmoor which were all named as National Parks in 1951. Others followed afterwards, such as the North York Moors in 1952. the New Forest in 2005 and the South Downs in 2010.

Are National Parks in England the same as those in other countries?

Many National Parks around the world cover huge areas of land where nobody lives, but in England most of the countryside within them is used for farming and other activities. As a result, National Parks in England include places where people live and work, as well as wild and beautiful areas where there is little sign of human life.

Why do visitors go to the national Parks?

There are plenty of activities to do in all of the National Parks in England. Visitors can walk or cycle, following marked route, and many of the parks organize activities for families.

Are there any problems in the National Parks?

There are about 110 million visitors to the parks every year, bringing many benefits to the areas but creating problems too. Many popular towns and villages can be swamped (充斥) by visitors. This results in overcrowded car parks and roads choked (堵塞) with traffic. Life can be difficult for people who live there, as more and more gift shops and cafes are opened instead of those everyday shops; in popular areas, house prices can become too high for local people making it hard for them to stay in the area.

How can people help?

All National Parks in England promote (倡导) the Countryside Code, which tells people how to take care of their environment. If these rules are followed, the National Parks will be protected and continue to give pleasure to many people for a long time.
