What kind of place do you usually choose to stay for the night during a trip? Expensive hotels that may make you feel like you don't get what you pay for? Or cheap hostels that put you and five other strangers in the same bedroom? If both choices sound terrible to you, here's something new: holiday apartments.

In a holiday apartment, you have more space than what a hotel room can give you. Everything in the apartment is at your disposal. The living room, the kitchen, the study, and, of course, the bedrooms are all for your own use. Some apartments even have a lovely garden or a game room. You'll feel at home in the holiday apartment. The best thing is, a holiday apartment is not expensive. The price for a holiday apartment is for two people, and the apartment is often cheaper than a hotel room for two. You only need to pay a little more for a third or fourth person. If you travel with friends or your family, a holiday apartment will be your best choice!

29. What is the passage mostly about?
 A. Where to find a nice holiday apartment.
 B. How to choose a nice holiday apartment.
 C. Why one should choose a holiday apartment.
 D. How one can change their house into a holiday apartment.
30. From the reading, we can learn that holiday apartments are good for people who _____.
 A. like to take one-day trips
 B. travel in a group of three or more
 C. want to make new friends when traveling
 D. like to spend their holidays in the country
31. What does it mean to say that something is at your disposal?
 A. You are free to use it.
 B. You can find it everywhere.
 C. You know everything about it.
 D. You can buy it at a lower price.

Five years ago I worked for a few weeks as a doctor in a new dental clinic(牙科诊所) at Victor Harbour, to the south of Adelaide and an hour further away than my usual workplace. My first day there was a rush—driving to a new clinic and getting used to the clinical environment.

As it was all new to me, I took off my rings: my wedding ring, and one that was a gift from my husband. I put them in tissue(纸巾) and placed them beside my computer.

During my lunch break, I noticed the tissue and thought that it did not look very clean and threw it into the rubbish bin. I went about my work and my day went well; I met new patients and felt that I had been doing well at work.

Driving home at the end of the day, just moments before I reached my house, I noticed that my rings were missing. I felt the heat in my body rise, my face burning red. I felt sick to my stomach.

I spent an hour or so making calls, trying to find my rings. The first people I called were my manager and clinical leader and they gave me a few phone numbers for cleaners. I got in touch with a lady who managed the cleaning services for the clinic, and she told me that the bins had already been collected.

I knew nothing could be done now. I had lost my rings. But after two hours or so, I received the most amazing phone call. The cleaner had gone through the bins and found my rings! I was so thankful to her who had taken the trouble to go through the bins—which is not a pleasant task—to find my priceless rings.

I worked at that clinic the following day, so I bought chocolates to thank this wonderful person. Unluckily, I did not get to meet her as she was not at work that day.

- A. c-d-a-b
- B. c-d-b-a

- D. a-d-b-c

35. What can we learn from the writer's experience?

- A. Smiles can warm people up.

As Kasara and her brother, Darryl, walked to school, Kasara stopped to pick up a feather, and a few minutes later, a leaf from an oak tree.

“What are you doing, Kasara?” Darryl asked.

“I’m collecting objects to create a collage,” Kasara explained.

“What’s a collage?” Darryl asked.

“Collage is a kind of art in which you arrange(安排) a lot of different kinds of objects and scraps on a piece of paper or cardboard, and then you glue them in place,” Kasara explained. “What you get is a special collection of colours and textures. My class has made collages a couple of times already this year.”

“Other than feathers and leaves and scraps, what kinds of objects do you use?” Darryl asked.

“You can use just about anything you want. Caps of soda bottles, plastic packaging, old postage stamps, and greeting cards are some things I’ve used, and this time, I’m also going to cut words and pictures out of old magazines and newspapers. You can even draw or paint on a collage if you want,” said Kasara.

“That sounds like fun. Can I make a collage too?” Darryl asked.

“Sure. We can work on it together after we finish our homework tonight,” answered Kasara.

During the rest of the walk to school, Darryl looked for objects he could use to create his collage, and he continued to look for more things as he walked home that afternoon.

He found a piece of string, some shiny, colourful paper, and even some bark from a tree.

Kasara laughed as she watched him. “You’re excited about this project, aren’t you?” she asked.

“Yeah! I have lots of ideas about how I want my collage to look,” Darryl said.

The children arrived at home and first did their homework. Then they gathered the art supplies they would need to make the collage, including scissors, glue, markers, and a stack of old magazines and newspapers. Both children placed on the table all the objects they had found during their walk, and then Kasara unrolled a large piece of poster board and cut it in half; half for herself and half for her brother.

“I like to arrange the objects before I glue anything down,” Kasara explained to Darryl. “That way, I can make changes if I want to, but once the objects are glued on, the collage is pretty permanent.”

The children worked together for the rest of the evening. After a few hours, they had glued everything in place and set the collages aside for the glue to dry thoroughly. The next morning, they each went to check on their completed projects.

Darryl looked at his sister and grinned(露齿而笑). “You’re the art instructor(指导者) of the family now. What will tomorrow’s art project be?” He asked. She laughed and ruffled(弄乱) his hair.

36. Kasara thought Darryl was excited about making a collage because he _____.

- A. started looking everywhere for objects for his collage
- B. started his collage the minute he finished his homework
- C. told Kasara that he had lots of ideas about making a collage
- D. asked Kasara if he could make a collage when she made hers

37. What does the underlined word permanent mean in the passage?

- A. Beautiful.
- B. Together.
- C. Able to change.
- D. Unable to change.

38. What did Kasara and Darryl use to make the collage this time?

- A. Old magazines and newspapers.
- B. Feathers, leaves and scraps.
- C. Caps of soda bottles, plastic packaging.
- D. Old postage stamps and greeting cards.

39. According to the story, What is TRUE about Kasara?

- A. She likes to try new things.
- B. She likes to copy what others do.
- C. She enjoys working on her own.
- D. She enjoys collecting old things.

40. Which may happen after the story?

- A. The collages Kasara and Darryl made will be broken.
- B. Darryl will tell Kasara he does not enjoy making art.
- C. Kasara will decide she would rather work by herself.
- D. Kasara will teach Darryl how to do other kinds of art.

Sometimes, I'm asked: What's the secret to success? For me, it's developing my interest and focusing on making myself proud. Here are some keys that are necessary for a successful career in IT.

Create a Plan

Plan how you can use your interest to gain experience. I often recommend anyone who starts out in IT should begin on the help desk. It gives you a quick education on the latest technology.

Write down goals and important events for the coming years to mark your progress.

Remember that the knowledge and skills you learn in your career will change all the time.

Look for a mentor(导师)

It can be difficult to be faced with life decisions that you may not be prepared for. It's very important for you to find a good mentor—one who'll give you sound guidance and keep you away from troubles and career dead-ends with experience.

A mentor allows you to ask practically any question. More importantly, he can help you face many of the unique challenges in the field of IT.

Make yourself proud

Others' recognition(认同) is always important. However, you also need an internal compass that keeps you on who you want to be, personally and professionally.

Build your network

Surround yourself with those who'll support you. You'll be able to work out difficulties and challenges that feel too large and difficult to overcome on your own.

In addition, your network will open up chances for you and your career, both now and in the years to come.

Investing(投资) in people is never a waste of time or effort. It always comes back to you.

And then, give back

Young people need the help of a network as they grow in their careers. So now it's your turn.

Interest is contagious(有感染力的)

Don't doubt to follow your interest. With careful planning, plus support from mentors and contacts, you'll find yourself on your way to a successful IT career.

Thanks for your last letter. I can't tell you how excited I am now!

I plan to fly to America on July 10 and stay there for about three weeks.

I will take an English course to improve my spoken English. If possible, I hope to visit some American families to experience their life and learn more about American culture. Also I'd like to take trips to Hollywood and Disneyland. That must be really interesting. Of course I need to buy some presents for my family and friends. Do you have any suggestions?
