You can probably all ride a bike well. I'm an exception (例外).

I started riding a bike when I was three. It was a tiny toy bike with four wheels. I loved it very much and rode it every day.

When I was 5, my cousin gave me a pink bike. It was a true bicycle with just two wheels! At the time, my parents were too busy to teach me how to ride it. So I had to learn to ride by myself. I practiced hard on weekends and during vacations, although I still didn't know how to make turns.

One summer vacation, I borrowed an old bike and rode it with my friends on a country road. We sang and practiced our riding skills. Suddenly, a small boy ran into the road. I was shocked and couldn't control the bike at all. My bike ran into the boy and he fell. He didn't get very seriously hurt, but his grandma was too angry to accept my apology. My cousin appeared five minutes later and saved me from the mess. But the experience frightened me: I no longer dared to ride a bike.

Then, last year, free bikes were offered to children. My mother tried to teach me how to ride. But the traffic made me so nervous that I had to ride really slowly. But I'm not going to give up. One day, believe me; you'd see me riding a bike in a big street.

- (1) What kind of bike did the writer have when he was five?
 - A. An electric bicycle.
 - B. A bicycle with two wheels.
 - C. A bicycle with three wheels.
 - D. A bicycle with four wheels.
- (2) Who taught the writer to ride a bike when he was five?

 - B. His mother
 - C. His brother
 - D. No one.

- (3) Who did the writer hit on the road?
 - A. A small girl.
 - B. A small boy.
 - C. An old man.
 - D. An old woman.
- (4) Why did the writer say I no longer dared to ride a bikell?
 - A. Because his parents didn't allow him to ride a bike.
 - B. Because he didn't have bikes any longer.
 - C. Because he hit a small boy and was very frightened.
 - D. Because he was afraid of that small boy's grandma.
- (5) What is the best title of the passage?
 - A. My experience of riding bikes.
 - B. The bike I love best.
 - C. How to ride a bike.
 - D. An accident.

As we all know, the ocean moves. But waves breaking on the beach make the ocean fun. When you stand on the shore and look at the waves, it seems like the water is moving towards you. But the water is not really moving forward. The moving you see is wave energy. And wave energy comes from the wind.

Let's think about how this works. As wave energy passes through the water, the energy makes particles (粒子) of water move up and down. Just give you an example of a wave passing under a basketball. We put a basketball on the sea. When the wind blows, a wave comes from behind the basketball. The basketball moves up to the top with the wave. Then the wave continues and leaves the basketball behind. The basketball looks lower, but it doesn't move forward. That's because the wave energy just moves the water which is under the basketball.

So why can you see a wave knock you down on the shore? When a wave moves toward the shore, the bottom of the wave slows down because it meets the ocean floor. But the top, which is called crest (浪峰), keeps moving. The different action causes the wave to fall over or break onto the shore. If a wave is very large, it carries a lot of energy when it hits the land. As time goes by, waves can break up and carry away the rocks and other things on the shore. Shorelines are changing all the time because of wave action.

- (1) _____ is really moving forward when you look at the wave.
 - A. Water
 - B. The basketball

- C. Water and wave energy
- D. Wave energy
- (2) Match the sentences with the pictures and the right answer.
 - (1) The basketball moves up to the top with the wave.
 - (2) The basketball continues and leaves the basketball behind.
 - (3) When the wind blows, a wave comes from behind the basketball.

- A. a—(2) b—(1) c—(3)
- B. a—(3) b—(1) c—(2)
- C. a-(1) b-(3) c-(2)
- D. a—(3) b—(2) c—(1)
- (3) Which of the following is NOT true according to the passage?
 - A. Wave energy comes from the water.
 - B. Large waves carry plenty of energy.
 - C. Wave action makes shorelines change all the time.
 - D. The bottom of the wave is easy to slow down.
- (4) The underlined word "it" (Paragraph 3) refers to " ______ ".
 - A. particles of water
 - B. the shore
 - C. the wind
 - D. the bottom of the wave
- (5) The main idea of this passage is _____.
 - A. what makes particles of water move
 - B. how a basketball moves on the ocean
 - C. how wave energy causes wave action
 - D. why a wave can knock you down

On June 6th, 2012 Tiangong-1 welcomed its first guests, the Shenzhou IX manned spacecraft. The Shenzhou IX has two male astronauts and one female astronaut. At that time, Liu Yang, a thirty-three year-old woman, became the first Chinese woman in space.

Joining the People's Liberation Army (PLA) Air Force in 1997, Liu Yang became an experienced pilot after flying safely for 1,680 hours. In 2010, she became an astronaut because of her good job.

"When I was a pilot, I flew in the sky. Now that I am an astronaut, I will fly in space. This will be a much higher and farther flight. I always couldn't help wondering: What would the Earth look like from outer space? "Liu said.

In June 2012, Liu took Shenzhou IX to the space as China's first female astronaut. "I have full confidence, "Liu said before the task. There are many foreign female astronauts that have been into space. Men and women have their own advantages in carrying out space tasks. They can encourage each other and better complete their task.

However, the difficulty of her training has not affected her life's pleasure. "I love children and I love life. I love reading, especially novels and history books. I am also a great cook. To ole can't
