Rob was waiting for his friend, Steve, he should arrive in five minutes. They were going to meet and watch a movie together, and Rob didn't want to miss a single minute of the show.

If Steve didn't show up soon, they wouldn't have time to get popcorn and drinks before the movie started. Rob complained about late friends while he waited.

He wondered why Steve couldn't be on time. He wondered what excuse Steve would have this time. Last time Steve had said it was because his dad needed help in the garden. What would it be this time? Did the dog need walking or did the cat need feeding? Maybe Steve's mother needed help with the dishes? There would be an excuse, he was certain of that.

Finally, Steve appeared. "Well, let's go then." Rob suggested. Then he reached for his wallet, so he could buy a ticket. But he couldn't find his wallet, he had to go back to his car and got his wallet. Then he didn't have time to get popcorn or a drink. When they were watching the movie, Steve shared his popcorn, while Rob could hardly eat it. He felt guilty during the whole movie, "I was complaining about Steve's being late, but then I was the one who was late."

When the movie was over, he apologized to Steve. But Steve replied, "You are welcome. We are friends. That's what friends are for." Rob answered happily, "Thanks for understanding, my friend!"
