On the first day of my second grade, my father asked me if I could read well. "Yes, I can." I said. So he gave me a hand-painted map with street names and directions on how to walk to school – the school was miles away, and I had never walked to school by myself.

He handed me the map with my lunch box and jacket and simply said to me, "Everything you need to know is written on the map, so you should just read the map and follow the directions."

I was standing in doubt, terrified to death, but he just kissed me goodbye and sent me out of the door. I didn't know how long it took me to get there, or how many fearful and anxious moments I had, but I did remember forever how I felt when I came around the last corner, and saw my school. I was happy and finally laughed. I was proud that I had made it! I jumped up and down. I wished I could tell him right then that I had done it.

When I got home, I didn't see my father. I couldn't wait for him to come back and tell him what had happened. But when he came back, he didn't ask me anything.

"He didn't care about me at all!" I thought.

Years later, I finally got the courage to ask him why he did that and why he didn't care about what had happened since I was so young then. He said, "I didn't have to ask you, I knew. I followed you the whole way in the car, but far enough back so that you could not see me. I saw you jump up and down at the last street corner. I felt what you felt."

At the moment, I understood everything. Then I couldn't help crying.

 - ~~D. Just follow the directions~~
- C

Nikola Tesla is said to have invented many things. He is regarded as the father of modern technology. Tesla was born in Serbia in 1856, and was educated in Europe. He was a strange child but very talented. He loved science and mathematics and was always creating things around his house. He could speak seven languages. He eventually moved to New York in 1884, at 28, and worked with Thomas Edison.

Tesla had lots of ideas that were very advanced for the times. He was really interested in alternating current (交流电). According to the idea, energy can flow in different directions. This is really good for transmitting (传输) electricity, because it becomes lighter, and therefore can be carried farther and faster. He also made great progress in the fields of wireless communication. And he even took the first X-ray photograph. He dreamed of creating a system that transmitted energy without using wires (电线). To test his idea, he used a huge tower that is called the Tesla Tower.

This tower later became a subject for discussion. Some wanted to save this symbol of Tesla's work. Finally, a project to protect the tower succeeded in buying it in 2013. There are plans to build a museum there. "It's hugely important to protect this site," said

Marc Seifer, author of Tesla's biography(传记). The President of the Tesla Science Centre, Jane Alcorn, agreed. "A lot of his work was way ahead of his time," she said.

The story of Nikola Tesla is a sad one. Although his patents(专利) made him rich, he spent most of his money. Larry Page, the founder of Google, said that "in fact, Tesla could hardly afford his own research." Largely forgotten, he died at the age of 87 with nobody around. Perhaps the preservation(保存) of Tesla's tower would give the inventor the respect he deserves.

56. According to the article, which of the following is NOT true about Tesla?

A. Tesla was famous for discovering X rays.

B. Tesla caught little public attention in his late years.

C. Tesla was a pioneer in science and technology at his time.

D. In 1884, Tesla moved to New York and then worked with Thomas Edison.

57. Why did people want to save the Tesla Tower?

A. Because Tesla's ideas are largely forgotten.

B. Because they wanted to test Tesla's theories.

C. Because it is the symbol of Nikola Tesla's work.

D. Because there were plans to build a museum there.

58. It is clear that Nikola Tesla _____.

A. travelled to 7 countries.

B. was rich and lived a happy life.

C. was always respected and remembered during his life.

D. was smart, but many people couldn't understand him when he was a child.

59. Which of the following can best describe Nikola Tesla?

A. the founder of Google

B. the president of the Tesla Science Centre

C. the inventor of electricity

D. the father of modern technology

60. The best title for the article is _____.

A. Nikola Tesla and his tower

B. Was Nikola Tesla a genius?

C. Greatest inventions of Nikola Tesla

D. The person who deserves a Nobel Prize

第II卷 (非选择题共35分)

五、词与短语填空 (共5小题, 每小题2分, 满分10分)

仔细阅读下面五个句子, 然后用下面方框中所给的单词或短语填空, 使每个句子在结构、句义和逻辑上正确。(提示: 选项中有一个是多余的。)

六、阅读理解填词 (共10小题, 每小题1分, 满分10分)

先阅读短文, 再在其后空白处写出各单词的正确形式, 单词的第一个字母已给出。

When it comes to shopping, packaging(包装) is important. Beautiful boxes, bright colors, fascinating bottles — they all help customers make a choice. But this is about to change.

The market is being changed by a British company. Lush is a cosmetics(化妆品) company with hundreds of shops around the world. They claim (宣称) to be an environmentally friendly business brand. And in packaging, they do keep their promise.

Thirty-five percent of their products are sold naked (无包装的), with no packaging. It isn't very attractive but it's very green. Most things in the shop are sold in bottles, and these plastic bottles can be recycled(回收利用). A person can return five clean bottles to any Lush store in exchange for a free face mask. One of their greatest innovations(创新) is the use of popcorn. Most companies use plastic for their packaging. But Lush is different. They use recycled cardboard for the exterior (外部的) packaging, and popcorn to protect the product inside. At first, they had used paper pieces, but later over on to popcorn. So why? Because popcorn is 60% lighter than paper pieces, which means it takes less energy for transportation. And there is no need to pack the products in thin plastic any more.

a. So next time you order something online, check if there's any popcorn packaging your product. But don't eat it!
