B

This morning I got an email from Roy. It seems that my boy really enjoys his new life at Harvard University.

The email made me think of the first day when we moved into this house. Little Roy ran around the new house with great excitement and tried to move his own things into the house such as his toys, books and clothes. Suddenly his little hand knocked over a bottle of paint on the shelf. The paint made the tidy floor and white wall a terrible mess. "Oh Roy!" My wife rushed in angrily. I looked at my son, and his small face was filled with fear. I smiled and held his hand, "Take it easy, Roy. Now let's do something to make it look nice." I took out a brush. "You see, Dad is a magician. I can change it into a big tree." His mother soon joined us and helped paint some flowers on the wall. We spent the whole afternoon painting and laughing. The wall became a beautiful forest with plants, birds and small animals. Blue sky and white clouds were also painted by Roy. On that day, everyone in the house knew something special happened.

The night before Roy left for Harvard, he asked me if I still remembered the day when he had knocked over the paint. "Since then I've never worried about making mistakes," he continued, "I believe I can always find out ways to solve the problems."

That's for sure. Mistakes are unavoidable(无法避免). Making mistakes is part of life. When we make a mistake, what we shouldn't do is to run away from it. The mistake can be valuable if we can make full use of it. In fact, our attitudes(态度) towards them may make a difference.

61. On the first day the family moved to the house, _____

A. Roy knocked over his toys on the floor.

B. Roy's father was angry with him at first.

C. the whole family were happy all the time.

D. Roy's father did something special to Roy.

62. What did the father do with the paint?

A. To paint some pictures on the wall.

B. To teach his son to draw.

C. To draw a forest on the floor.

D. To give a magic show.

63. How did Roy feel that whole afternoon?

A. Excited but tired.

B. Busy but happy.

C. Useless and bored.

D. Afraid and worried.

64. From the passage, we know Roy _____.

A. learns a lot from his mother

B. will become braver to face difficulties

C. will try to avoid making mistakes

D. has a bad relationship with his mother

65. The best title of the passage could be "_____".

- A. Mistakes are unavoidable. B. Learn to pay for the mistakes.
C. Attitudes make a difference. D. Never make mistakes.

C

At the age of 60, my dad fell ill. After sleeping for two months in hospital, he finally woke up. His waking up thrilled all our family. But then we knew he didn't know any of us! Doctors said his brain was hurt so badly that he had lost his memory. And his mental age was only five. My heart sank when I heard the terrible news.

Since I was his only child, it was my duty to look after him. He forgot almost everything, but he did remember he liked sweets. I would give him one sweet if he didn't sit on the ground, a second for stopping painting on the wall, and another for not trying to put clothes on the dog.

Dad became the oldest child in town. He climbed up the tree to catch a bird and couldn't get down after it flew away. He broke my window with a ball and cleaned our telephone in water like washing clothes. When I told him he was doing wrong things, he would answer smilingly, "I like that!"

My son then aged five, and two eight-year-old daughters, welcomed their big playmate. He would happily make them real cigarettes, share his sweets with them, and carry them high in the apple tree to pick apples.

It is eight years since the accident. Dad has accepted the fact that he is the grandpa of his three playmates but not a brother. He has also accepted that they grow taller but his height always stays the same. Though it is still tiring to take care of him, he truly brings us a lot of fun. In some way, I think it is a happy thing to look after Dad like looking after a child. How many people can have the chance to care for a child-like parent?

66. The word "thrilled" in Paragraph 1 probably means "_____".

- A. excited B. frightened C. worried D. upset

67. After the car accident, the father _____.

- A. didn't remember anyone and anything
B. suddenly developed a strong love for sweets
C. often felt sorry when he made some trouble for the author
D. had the body of a man but only the mind of a child

68. The author gave his father sweets in order to _____.

- A. please the father and leave him a beautiful memory
B. stop the father from doing something wrong or silly
C. praise him for helping the author with housework
D. encourage him to make friends with other children

69. What can we infer from the passage?

- A. The author was often annoyed (恼火的) at his father's mistakes.
B. The three kids always regarded their grandfather as their best playmate.

- C. The author enjoyed the process (过程) of taking care of his father.
 D. The father never knew he was actually the grandfather of the author's kids.

70. The best title of the passage could be: _____

- A. The Children's New Playmate
 B. The Sweetest Memories
 C. Dad's Problem
 D. My Oldest 'child'

六、阅读理解填词 (本题共 10 分, 每小题 1 分)

I am Jackie Lee, an American Chinese. Let me tell you about my grandfather's life story.

My grandfather was born in 1932 and grew up in a poor village in Fujian, China. At the age of 14, he first heard of America. It was surprising to be the land of gold.

So, my grandfather came to America. "I had thought it was easy to make money in America," he told me. "But when I arrived in Los Angeles, I realized it was not true. I couldn't find a good job because I spoke little English. I wanted to go to a language school to learn English, but I couldn't afford it. Later, I worked in a small restaurant, serving the guests, cleaning up the tables, washing the dishes and sweeping the floors. I worked hard. I was such a hard and honest worker that my boss was pleased with me. My workmates liked me, too. Life became easier and in the evening, I entered an evening school to learn English."

My grandfather kept working hard, and finally made his dream come true. Things do not come easily in life. That is what I have learned from my grandfather.
