Robby was 11 when his mother dropped him off for his first piano lesson. I prefer students to begin at an earlier age. Robby said that it had always been his mother's dream to hear him play the piano, so I took him on as a student.

Robby tried and tried while I listened and encouraged him and gave him more instructions. But he just did not have any inborn ability.

I only saw his mother from a distance. She always waved and smiled but never came in. Then one day Robby stopped coming to our lessons. I thought about calling him but I guessed he had decided to try something else.

I was also glad that he stopped coming for the sake of my career. However, several weeks before the recital (演唱会) of my students, Robby came, telling me that he never stopped practicing and begged me to allow him to take part in it. I agreed, but I made him perform last in the program, so I could save his poor performance through my "curtain closer".

I was surprised when he announced that he had chosen one piece of Mozart's Never had I heard a piece of Mozart's played so well by someone at his age. When he finished, everyone was cheering.

I ran up and put my arms around Robby in joy. "I've never heard you play like that, Robby! How could you do it?"

"Well, Miss Hondorf. Do you remember I told you my mom was sick? Actually she died this morning. She was born deaf, so tonight was the first time she could hear me play. I wanted to make it special. I knew I could."

That night, Robby was the teacher and I was the student. He taught me so many important things about life.

- () 30. Why might Robby have stopped coming to piano lessons suddenly?
- A. He lost heart and believed that he would never make it.
B. His mother might have been seriously ill.
C. He thought that his teacher disliked him.
D. His mother died and he didn't need to play any longer.

- () 31. From the underlined sentence, what can we infer?
- A. The writer looked down upon Robby and disliked him.
 - B. The writer thought Robby was a bad advertisement for her teaching.
 - C. With Robby in the recital, the other children couldn't play well.
 - D. The writer couldn't teach so many students at a time.
- () 32. Why did the writer make Robby perform last?
- A. Because the one who performs last always performs very well.
 - B. Because Robby asked the writer to do so.
 - C. Because she planned to do something to save a poor performance.
 - D. Because Robby thought his mother would come at last.
- () 33. What can we know from the passage?
- A. The writer thought students shouldn't begin playing the piano too early.
 - B. The writer thought that Robby had given up his piano lessons.
 - C. Only by practicing at home did Robby learn to play well.
 - D. No one else could play the piece of Mozart's as well as Robby.

C

Do you sweat, chew your pencil, or get butterflies in your stomach as your teacher hands or test papers? A lot of people (adults included) get nervous when it's time to take a test. In fact, sometimes a little stress is not so bad. But it's not good to worry too much. Here are some tips for you on taking tests.

First, be sure you've studied properly. It sounds like a no-brainer, but if you're sure of the information, you'll have less to worry.

4 Get enough sleep the night before the test. Your memory recall will be much better if you have had enough rest. In a scientific study, people who got enough sleep before taking a maths test did better than those who stayed up all night studying.

Read the test paper through first. Once you have your test paper in front of you, read over the whole test paper, checking out all the parts that you are expected to complete. This will let you know how much time you have for each-part. If something seems unclear before you start, don't be afraid. Ask the teacher.

Finish the easy questions first. If you don't know the answer to one question, you can first finish other questions. You can go back to it after you finish others.

▲ If you're so nervous that you are unable to remember anything, you might need a mini-break. Of course you can't get up or move around in the middle of a test, but you can wiggle your fingers and toes and take a deep breath.

Finished already? Although most teachers will let you hand your test paper in early, it's usually a good idea to spend some time checking over your work. You can also add details that you may not have thought. On the other hand, if you have 5 minutes until the bell rings and you're still writing, finish whatever you're working on calmly.

- () 34. What does the underlined word "butterflies" mean?
- A. Mad
 - B. Smart
 - C. Stupid.
 - D. Nervous.

- () 35. Which of the following can be put in ▲ ?
- A. Try to relax.
 - B. Pay attention.
 - C. Listen to the teacher.
 - D. Check your answers.
- () 36. What can we know according to the passage?
- A. If we are nervous in the middle of a test, we can take pictures of ourselves.
 - B. When we don't know some answers of the test, we must finish them right now.
 - C. Getting enough sleep the night before the test can help recall our memory easily.
 - D. When we get the test paper we should read part of the test so that we can save time.
- () 37. What is the passage mainly about?
- A. How to do well in tests.
 - B. How to read tests carefully.
 - C. How to focus on questions of tests.
 - D. How to ask a teacher for help about tests.

Parents often believe that they have a good relationship with their teenagers. But last summer, Joanna and Henry noticed a change in their older son: suddenly he seemed to be talking far more to "his friends than to his parents. The door to his room is always shut," Joanna noted.

Tina and Mark noticed similar changes in their 14-year-old daughter. "She used to cuddle up (蜷伏) with me on the sofa and talk," said Mark. "Now we joke that she does this only when she wants something. Sometimes she wants to be treated like a little girl and sometimes like a young lady. The problem is figuring out which time is which."

Before age 11, children like to tell their parents what's on their minds. "In fact, parents are first the list," said Michael Riera, author of Uncommon Sense for Parents with Teenagers. "This completely changes during the teen years," Riera explained. "They talk to their friends first, then maybe their teachers, and their parents last."

Parents who know what's going on in their teenagers' lives are in the best position to help them. To break down the wall of silence, parents should create chances to understand what their children want to say, and try to find ways to talk and write to them. And they must give their children a mental break, for children also need freedom, though young. Another thing parents should remember is that to be a friend, not a manager, with their children is a better way to know them.

- () 38. "The door to his room is always shut" suggests that the son _____.
- A. is always busy with his studies
 - B. doesn't want to be disturbed
 - C. keeps himself away from his parents
 - D. begins to dislike his parents
- () 39. What troubles Tina and Mark most?
- A. Their daughter isn't as lovely as before.
 - B. They can't read their daughter's mind exactly.
 - C. They don't know what to say to their daughter.
 - D. Their daughter talks with them only when she needs help.

() 40. Which of the following best explains “the wall of silence” in the last paragraph?

- A. Teenagers talk a lot with their parents.
- B. Teenagers do not want to understand their parents.
- C. Teenagers do not talk much with their parents.
- D. Teenagers talk a little about their own lives.

() 41. What can be learned from the passage?

- A. Parents are unhappy with their growing children.
- B. Parents have suitable ways to talk with their teenagers.
- C. Parents should be patient with their silent teenagers.
- D. Parents should try to understand their teenagers.

E

Eight hours' sleep is traditionally regarded as healthy-though many of us need less, and some more. What matters is how you feel, and what you do with the other sixteen hours of the day.

We are all built slightly differently, so there is no reason why our sleep requirements should be the same. If, for example, you are the sort of person who goes running around getting exhausted, then you are going to need more rest, but not necessarily more sleep.

Similarly, if you sleep “badly”, wake tense (紧张的), and worry throughout the day-and there's nothing more tiring than tension-then further long hours lying awake won't help.

Drugged sleep is not the long-term answer either. Sleeping pills merely slow your body down. Usually they let you drop off, though if you take them for more than six weeks, then the actual chemical effect disappears. The only real solution is “turning off” the internal machinery. Work at creating your own relaxing routine, get hold of the things that annoy you most and try to identify them.

What is sleep all about? The simplest way to find out what sleep is for is to do without it for a while and see what happens. The brain starts going gently crazy if somebody can't sleep for two or three days. It simply stops working in a sensible fashion.

Why does sleep sometimes not come when it should? Imagine, the days when our ancestors lived in the jungle. Those who fell asleep too easily risked being eaten up. It certainly paid to keep half-awake, ready for action if danger arrived. The trouble is we are still doing it even though there is no longer any danger. We react as if there are threats (威胁) to us, when all we want to do is fall asleep.

Anger and other signs of stress clearly interfere (妨碍) with calm sleep, just as they do with calm waking. Before trying to sleep, it is always better to get your angry feelings out into the open, rather than push them to the back of your mind. As you fall asleep, the mind is less lively and allows those feelings to come back again, where they dance around and keep you awake.

I recommend trying to get more control of reality. Then your dreams will be sweeter and your sleep better.

() 42. The time our sleep takes depends on our _____.

- A. working hours
- B. health conditions
- C. living surroundings
- D. feelings and daily activities

- () 43. According to the text, how can we understand why we sleep?
- By living without sleep for a few days.
 - By trying drugged sleep.
 - By lying awake in bed for long hours.
 - By stopping working in a sensible fashion.
- () 44 Sometimes sleep doesn't come when it should, because we _____.
- worry too much about our sleep
 - are afraid our brain will go crazy
 - feel there may be dangers if we fall asleep
 - are threatened by being eaten up in the jungle
- () 45. According to the writer, if you want to have a good sleep when you are in anger, _____.
- you'd better tell others your feelings
 - you need calm waking first
 - you must keep your mind less lively
 - you should bury your feelings deep in mind

盛浩然老师:

本套试卷词汇语法的考察基础但是题量大,对学生知识点的全面程度要求较高。综合题型文本难度一般,但题型设置陷阱较多,会是整张试卷的丢分点。

词汇选择和正确形式填空题考察范围是初一到初三全三年,已经开始复习环节或准备进入复习环节的同学可以好好练练,查缺补漏。词汇题的难度略高于中考,但考察的形式也比较符合中考题型。完形填空和阅读理解文本不难理解,但陷阱题很多,如阅读 A 篇的第一题,需要认真审题,否则难以判断出来题目的要求。书面表达主题为中国结,对应了 19 年中考的写作话题中国红,除此之外宝安区也考察了中国传统文化的话题。这一进一步印证了“九上九下重要考试内容多参照历年中考,本年中考内容预测要避免往年中考”。

综合评定:此套试卷难度中等,78 分以上为不错,81 分以上优秀,83 分以上非常优秀!(满分 85)。本次考试也提醒同学们要在实战中不断提高审题能力,中考词汇知识点的全面程度,也要加强对陷阱题的辨别意识,总结自己的错误原因。
