18 You don't have to be a scientist to solve big environmental problems. One Dutch designer is finding creative ways to make a change—and he's inviting bikes to join him.

Daan Roosgaarde, 38, is a designer from Holland. He uses creative ideas to improve city life. For his Smog（雾霾）Free Project, he designed a special tower that cleans air in Chinese parks. In Holland, he designed a shining bicycle path.

Now Daan and his team are working with engineers at Chinese bike-sharing company ofo to create a new product for public use. It's an air-cleaning machine connected to a bicycle and is part of the Smog Free Project. In smoggy weather, the machine would breathe in the air in front of the bike and blow out a stream of clean air toward the biker's face.

It's no secret that air pollution is a big problem for China. In winter, it's common for thick clouds of haze（霾）, caused largely by factory production, burning of coal and car emissions（排放物）, to cover areas of China.

In 2016, only one-fourth of Chinese cities met the country's air quality standards, according to a survey of 338 cities nationwide from the Ministry of Environmental Protection.

"Of course one tower and a few bikes won't solve China's air pollution problem, " Daan said, "But smog-free bikes are an exciting idea that will hopefully inspire communities to create greener cities."

（1）According to the writer, _____ .

A. air pollution is not a big problem in China

B. creative ideas may help improve city life

C. only scientists can solve big environmental problems

D. the survey of 338 cities nationwide was not necessary

（2）The air-cleaning machine offers clean air to the biker by _____ .

A. blowing out dirty air　　B. running fast with the bike

C. cleaning the air around the biker　　D. breathing in dirty air and cleaning it

（3）From the passage, we know that _____ .

A. people who have creative ideas can get free bikes

B. only smog-free bikes can go on the shining bicycle path

C. Daan and his family spent all their time improving China's air quality

D. China's haze in winter happens because of more than three causes

（4）Daan is inviting bikers to join him in order to _____ .

A. raise money for the tower　　B. test his new machine

C. help solve the air pollution problem　　D. make more Chinese friends

（5）What is the best title for the passage?

A. Breathing In and Out　　B. Biking for Fresh Air

C. Survey from the Government　　D. China's Air Pollution Problem

Don't Judge a Book by Its Cover

Ever since I was a little girl, I've loved reading crime and detective（侦探）novels, so I guess it was pretty normal that I started writing them when I was older. However, my family is very big on having a traditional career（职业）and so when I said that I wanted to go to college and study writing, my parents told me that I couldn't. They told me that I had to study for a degree so that I would achieve a career, and not something as risky as writing. I suppose I could have studied journalism（新闻专业）, but I didn't want to lose interest in writing because it would be something I would do every day for work, not for pleasure. I thought that teaching looked like a pretty good compromise（妥协）, especially because of the long holidays. It was a good choice: by the time I was twenty-five, I'd already finished two novels and had an agent.

To be honest, I never meant to keep my being a crime writer a secret or anything, and my friends have always known. One of the reasons most people don't know is because my agent told me that my name Hazel sounded too much like a romance（浪漫）novelist for older women. She suggested Brooke Lane and I thought, "Well, if you think it'll make me successful, okay." I'd totally forgotten about it until I walked into school one day and saw one of my workmates reading my novel. I asked her some questions about it, and it was so clear that she had no idea that I'd written it—she even offered to lend it to me after she'd finished! Of course, sometimes I wonder what my students would think if they knew that their teacher was going home on the weekend to write about murders and dead bodies, but I think my parents probably did me a favor: my teaching job keeps me in touch with the real world.

（1）Hazel is probably _____ .

A. an agent　　B. a journalist

C. a teacher and artist　　D. a teacher and writer

（2）The underlined words "is very big on" in the passage most probably mean _____ .

A. to give no advice　　B. to like something very much

C. to have more experiences　　D. to misunderstand something

（3）It's clear that Hazel _____ .

A. agreed to study journalism for a degree

B. accepted Brooke Lane as her pen name

C. would like to write something for teaching

D. told her workmates about her writing novels

（4）Hazel finally realized that her parents' advice on her career was _____ .

A. helpful　　B. exciting　　C. disappointing　　D. risky

（5）We can infer from the passage that _____ .

A. Hazel likes showing off in public

B. Hazel's students all want to write novels

C. Hazel's agent has played a role in her success

D. older women prefer the name Brooke to Hazel

During the summer holiday, some students might have been busy with traveling, summer camps and all kinds of courses. But a special group of Chinese middle school students decided to taste the hardship of life outside school.

Twelve students in a big city sold vegetables at a local market together. Within 12 days, they made more than 1,500 yuan.

Among them, the oldest is 21 years old, while the youngest is just 10. They are all cousins in a big family and eight of them are from rural areas.

"Compared to traveling, such social practice connects us and makes us learn how tough our parents are," said Dalin,18, to the City Morning Post. Dalin, a senior high graduate, and her 12-year-old brother Xiaolin came up with the idea.

They learned to work hard to sell their veggies. Every morning they had to wake up at 3 o'clock. Some of them went to the farmer's market to buy vegetables. Some of them went to the local market to take up a temporary stall (临时摊位) . To lower the cost, they learned to bargain (讲价) with the sellers.

At about 6:30 am, they began to sell vegetables. They peddled (吆喝) loudly to attract (吸引) customers. After several days, they got some experience, too.

For example, it was better to put vegetables in order and bigger ones on top. When the vegetables are too heavy, they should give customers an extra plastic bag.

When they finally packed up and went home, they had a small meeting. Everyone took notes and shared their feelings.

"We are tired," said Dalin. "but we gained a lot."

(1) In the writer's opinion, the 12 students' action was _____ .

A. popular　　B. encouraging　　C. strange　　D. embarrassing

(2) The cousins decided to sell vegetables at a market to _____ .

A. show how able they were　　B. have less hardship of life

C. learn how hard their parents work　　D. prepare for their future traveling

(3) They bargained with the sellers to _____ .

A. cut down the cost　　B. share their feelings

C. get bigger vegetables　　D. attract more customers

(4) It's clear that _____ .

A. they took up the temporary stall in turn

B. they gave each customer an extra plastic bag

C. Dalin and Xiaolin got the idea of selling vegetables

D. the elder sold vegetables when the younger took notes

（5）The best title of the story should be _____ .

A. Summer Courses　　B. Family Business

C. Students Learn from Bargains　　D. Cousins Work with Vegetables

19　C

From a young age, I've had a really deep connection with being outside. I've been skiing since I was eight or nine years old. I've been on expeditions（探险） in many places like China, Pakistan and so on. But it was in my home country, the USA, that I came closest to death.

It was April 1, 2011. I was skiing in the Tetons with my friends Jeremy and Xavier, both experienced snowboarders. That day, I was the last person to ski. They were watching me from a safe area. Suddenly, I heard someone cry loudly. I turned around and saw the whole mountain start to move behind me. It was a massive avalanche（大雪崩）. The kind of avalanche that destroys trees, cars, buses, even houses! Tens of thousands of tons of snow were coming straight down the mountain behind me. I felt the snow push me forward, hundreds of meters, and then cover me. It was so heavy that I couldn't breathe. And then it pushed me forward again and up, out of the snowpack. I looked around, and for a few seconds I actually stopped being terrified. I had a moment to pause and to look at the power of the avalanche.

I looked down into the bottom of the valley（峡谷）. I could see trees that were 30m tall, because I was so far away, and they looked tiny to me. "Ok, I'm going all the way to the bottom!" I thought. Then the snow pushed me again down the mountain another 450m. I thought the force of the snow would destroy me, it was powerful. But in the end, I felt the avalanche slow down and I just popped（迸出） right out of the snow at the bottom of the valley.

It took Jeremy and Xavier about 20 minutes to reach me. There was a pile of debris（碎片） across the bottom of the mountain 300m wide. They couldn't believe it when they saw me. I was so lucky.

Has the experience changed me? Do I think about life differently? I don't know, maybe. But I do know that it's important to live your life with meaning. Life is a gift, so use it wisely.

（1）What impressed the writer most in his skiing experience is _____ .

A. the power of snow　　B. the sight of the valley

C. the danger of popping　　D. the luck of his expedition

B. the avalanche pushed the writer down about 300m away

C. the writer's friends watched him at the bottom of the valley

D. the writer couldn't breathe because of the weight of the snow

（4）The writer was thrown out of the snow when _____ .

A. his friends reached for him　　B. he was pushed to the bottom

C. the avalanche started to slow down　　D. the snow drove him forward again

（5）According to the writer, _____ .

A. his experience and his friends have changed him

B. it's impossible to know the force of snow

C. one should not live a meaningless life

D. he doesn't mind the matter of life or death

The Silk Road is the name of different roads that long ago connected Europe, Africa and Asia. People reached these different places along these roads. Scientists believe people began to travel the Silk Road about 3000 years ago. By the time the Chinese silk trade became important in the world, the Silk Road covered almost 6500 kilometres. It spread from Rome to China, which is from the West to the Far East.

Merchants travelled along the Silk Road to carry silk, of course. They also carried and traded other things like spices（香料）, cloth, jewels and gold.

Along and around these ancient paths（小路）, have come many fascinating and mysterious stories.

It is said that Roman soldiers who lost a war travelled through central Asia. They decided to live somewhere near the ancient Chinese village. Some of these Romans married local Chinese women and the legend of blond-haired, blue-eyed tribes of China was started.

Some historians believed that the people of Kashmir were taken away from their country Israel. They were prisoners（俘虏）of war almost 2800 years ago. People say that these people travelled along the Silk Road. They kept their Jewish way of life for a long time.

During its busiest period, the Silk Road allowed people from many different cultures and countries to meet each other and mix. The Silk Road allowed the sharing of valuable things and new ideas. It included people and trading goods from different areas. All these peoples travelled the Silk Road, and they shared goods, stories, languages, and cultures.

In modern times, the old Silk Road routes（路线）are still used, but now they are crossed by trains instead of camels and horses. There is even a Silk Route Museum in Jiuquan in China. It has over 35,000 objects from all along the Silk Road. In this way, China protects the history of many countries and peoples.

(1) It's clear that _____ .

A. the Silk Road was divided into Europe, Africa and Asia

B. Roman soldiers would like to travel along the Silk Road

C. people could travel to different countries along the Silk Road

D. people shared only silk on the Silk Road

(2) The underlined word "Merchants" in the passage probably means _____ .

A. foreigners B. businessmen C. soldiers D. prisoners

(3) According to the passage, _____ .

A. the Silk Road began with the wars

B. the Silk Road covered almost 6500 kilometers in China

C. people began to travel the Silk Road about 3000 years ago.

D. people from Israel were not included among people on the Silk Road

(4) The old Silk Road routes are still used because _____ .

A. there are many old stories about them

B. the historians and scientists think highly of them

C. China will make good use of the Silk Road again

D. people can keep on traveling and trading along them

(5) The best title for the passage can be _____ .

A. Stories along the Silk Road B. Silk Route Museum

C. Trade for Silk D. The West and the Far East
