Western people like to say "Thank you" when other people help them or say something kind to them. "Thank you" and "Excuse me" are magic words that can show your good manners.

You should say "Thank you" when someone gives you something. You should say "Thank you" too when someone walks ahead of you and keeps the door open for you. And when someone says you did a good job, or you got a nice thing, or your city is very beautiful, you should say "Thank you". This magic word is not only for your friends, but also for your family.

"Excuse me" is another way to show your good manners. When you hear someone says "Excuse me" behind you, you will know somebody wants to go ahead of you. If some people are talking, it's impolite to break in. You'd better say this magic word first, and then begin talking.
