One of my favourite books is That Guy Was Cool. It's a wonderful book for children, I think. But parents and teachers love it, too. It can teach them something about the language of today's children.

So lots of people, young and old, want to know about the book's writer, a Korean girl Guiyeoni.

"This book is near to us and goes to our hearts., When I read it, I laughed and cried." said Liang Zi, a girl from Jiangsu.

The book tells an unusual story of love between two students. The girl is sweet, but she's very common. The boy is good — looking and has everything, but he is often unhappy because his father died when the boy was very young. They become close and help each other to be happy. In the end, they fall in love.

"The girl in the book is like me. She's simple." said Guiyeoni.

Guiyeoni's book doesn't only use words. It also uses things like emotions. Emotions are small icons (符号), like smiling faces, and she uses them to show emotions. Children know what these things mean, because they often use them when they talk on the Internet or send messages with mobile phones.

"I can't leave her out in this weather" the young woman said to herself. She stopped the car and opened the door.

"Do you want a lift" she asked. The old woman nodded (点头) and climbed into the car.

After a while, she said to the old woman, "Have you been waiting a long time?" The old woman shook her head. "Strange," thought the woman, "She tried again." Bad weather for the time of year," she said. The old woman nodded.

Then the young woman noticed the old woman's hands, which were large and hairy.

Suddenly she realized that "she" was a man! She stopped the car. "I can't see out of the rear screen (后挡风玻璃)," she said, "Would you mind cleaning it for me?"

"The old woman" nodded and opened the door. As soon as "she" was out of the car, the frightened young woman drove off as fast as she could.

When she got to the next village, she stopped. She noticed "the old woman" had left "her" handbag behind. She picked it up and opened it. Inside was a gun.
